modern scholarship has struggled to come to terms with the meaning of wisdom and its significance in the field of education this book examines the importance of pursuing wisdom in schools by turning to ancient and medieval sources for clarification concerning the nature of wisdom sean steel argues that our current emphasis on the development of rigorous critical analytic thinking skills on assessment and on accountability in education has negatively impacted the ability of schools to foster an environment in which both students and teachers might pursue wisdom although in recent times efforts have been made to incorporate the pursuit of wisdom into schools through philosophy for children p4c and contemplative education programming such initiatives have missed their mark steel therefore recommends not more accountability in education for the purpose of ensuring global competitiveness but rather the institutional promotion of periods of leisure or scholē in the school day drawing upon his own experiences as a teacher who has tried to encourage students to search for wisdom the author discusses some of the challenges and pitfalls of wisdom seeking he also offers examples of various wisdom seeking activities that might bear fruit in the classroom throughout the spiritual journey god's love engenders within every christian active contemplative and solitary inclinations consequently each person wants to do some good to have a basic receptivity to god and at times to be alone with god as life unfolds god's love also calls forth within a person an overriding attraction toward one of those three orientations which in due course impels the individual toward a corresponding vocational lifestyle an apostolic life a contemplative life or an eremitic life in this book the authors identify the core features of those three vocational lifestyles in light of each vocational core they then discuss an ensemble of signs and patterns that point to an authentic calling from god this study offers wisdom and insight to those pondering the mystery of their personal vocations to those discerning their vocational direction and to spiritual directors formation personnel ecclesial leadership and christian educators who accompany them in their quest
