while paratexts among them headnotes footnotes or endnotes have never been absent from american literature the last two decades have seen an explosion of the phenomenon including mock scholarly footnotes to an extent that they seem to take over the text itself in this special focus we shall attempt to find the reasons for this astonishing development in our first diachronic section we shall explore such texts as might have fostered the present boom from fictions by edgar allan poe to vladimir nabokov to mark z danielowski the second synchronic section will concentrate on paratexts by david foster wallace perhaps the father of the post postmodern footnote as well as those to be found in novels by bennett sims jennifer egan and junot diaz among others it appears that while paratexts definitely point to a high degree of self reflexivity in the author they equally draw attention to the textual and authorial functions of the works in which they exist they can thus cause a reflection on the boundaries between genres like fiction faction and autobiography as well as serving to highlight a host of pedagogical and social concerns that exist in the interstices between fiction and reality

new technologies are changing our reading habits laptops e readers tablets and other handheld devices supply new platforms for reading and we must learn to manage them by scrolling clicking or tapping reading today places reading in current literary and cultural contexts in order to analyse how these contexts challenge our conceptions of who reads what reading is how we read where we read and for what purposes and then responds to the questions this analysis raises is our reading experience becoming a flat one and does reading in a media environment favour quick reading alongside these questions the contributors unpack emerging strategies of reading they consider for example how paying attention to readers emotional reactions as an indispensable component of reading affects our conception of the reading process other chapters consider how reading can be explored through such topics as experimental literature the contemporary encyclopedic novel and the healing power of books
