to avoid these pitfalls of unsupported presuppositions and the temptation of accommodating the statements of 1 peter 2 4 10 to pre conceived ideas concerning a priesthood of the church it would seem advisable if not imperative that a study of these verses begin not with a general treatment of such subjects as sacrifice or jewish priesthood or ministry and office in the early church but rather with this text alone comparison with other nt statements would be made only after the particular nuance of this section had been determined in this process attention would be concentrated primarily upon the context of 1 peter and the specific import of this text and the peculiar rather than the common characteristics would be spotlighted from the introduction the form and content of 1 peter 2 4 10 reveal that this section was an attempt to describe via the motif of election the character and responsibility of the eschatological people of god her bond with jesus christ her infusion with the spirit her holiness and her task of witness through the holy life and the proclamation of the saving deeds of god from summaries and conclusions the divine election of israel offers a comprehensive examination of yahweh's election of old testament israel by means of a detailed incisive and fruitful philological semantic analysis of the bible's hebrew text seock tae sohn explores the connection between election and other major themes such as covenant rejection remnant and restoration sohn traces the historical development of the idea of election and delineates the new testament reflections of old testament election imagery his discerning study not only expands our understanding of election in the scriptures but also powerfully demonstrates the linguistic richness and organic unity of the biblical text political jockeying over tv election debates risks a return to the historical pattern of failure to ensure the debates reach our screens the committee argues that this would be regrettable in light of powerful evidence that the public expects the debates to happen again research also shows that the debates helped to energise and engage the public in the electoral process with the most striking impact on the young and relatively disengaged the committee also argues that speculation over who can participate in the debates is sometimes misinformed a proper account of the legal and regulatory framework around broadcasting which the committee sets out in this report is important in answering some of the questions which have been raised about who can participate and the way the broadcasters reach this judgement finally the committee proposes a number of reforms to the debates under the continuing editorial stewardship of the broadcasters if the debates take place again in 2015 and beyond the broadcasters should make more of the opportunity to encourage the public to be interested in the electoral process they should establish an online portal or hub for the debates to ensure their easy discoverability alongside other election resources and they should make sure to consider the balance of gender and ethnic diversity among the moderators election campaigns and welfare state change examines how political leaders and the public respond to reform pressures at a pivotal moment in a mass democracy the election campaign social and behavioral science has for decades studied and recognized leadership as a social exchange between leaders and followers but leadership is rather complex and as such it tends to lead to an increased interest within and across different disciplines this book is an attempt to provide theoretical and empirical framework to better understand leadership challenges in various contexts the authors cover an array of themes that span from an individual level to an organizational and societal level in this volume two sections are presented the first section based on individual level focuses on different leadership styles and abilities and the other section provides theories to understand leadership in public administration in industrial settings and in nonprofit organizations mika s pajunen contributes both to the understanding of manuscript 4q381 from the dead sea scrolls and to broader issues related to the reconstruction of damaged scrolls and to the reading of psalms in late second temple judaism the author focuses especially on the collection of apocryphal psalms in 4q381 and other similar psalm collections but it is also of interest to the ongoing search for the functions of psalmody in this period a material reconstruction of manuscript 4q381 has been made to determine the original placement of all the substantial fragments within the scroll the reconstruction shows there to be eight psalms in the preserved scroll a thorough analysis of all of them is incorporated in this study including a critical hebrew text and the first english translation of the psalms a basic outline of the psalms content with comments on their details and a presentation of their overall message all the psalms in 4q381 discuss specific periods of time the first three psalms cover a period from the creation to the expected future of a group identified as god s chosen ones these are followed by five pseudepigraphic psalms that are named in this study as praise of the man of god david praise of hezekiah penitential prayer of manasseh lament of josiah and penitential prayer of jehoiachin the psalms in 4q381 make up a consistent whole that is shown to function as a unified lesson on the justice of god toward his elect in this investigation 4q381 is placed into its proper place inside some of the larger developments and ideologies perceivable within late second temple judaism for instance 4q381 is part of the general trends discernible in psalmody of this period namely a general increase in reflection upon the past and the use of wisdom motifs but in addition 4q381 also gives evidence of a perception of psalms as sources of history that is in the end found to be a much broader phenomenon
