starting with the first scientific economists such as cantillon 1755 and quesnay 1758 and ending with piketty 2019 this book explores the treatment of the concept of capital in the history of accounting and economic thought the work provides a rare juxtaposition of the reasoning discourse and writings of accountants and economists with regard to capital this approach highlights the ongoing struggle between these uncongenial twins as kenneth boulding put it for primacy in analysing and utilising capitalism but if they are certainly uncongenial the book also argues that it is wrong to ever classify these two disciplines as twins because they have taken very different paths ever since scientism came to dominate in economics and ethical and moral considerations were put to one side this book will be of significant interest to readers to history of economic thought critical accounting and heterodox economics qfinance the ultimate resource 5th edition is the first step reference for the finance professional or student of finance its coverage and author quality reflect a fine blend of practitioner and academic expertise whilst providing the reader with a thorough education in the may facets of finance this report highlights the important role data can play in creating conditions that improve public services increase the effectiveness of public spending and inform ethical and privacy considerations it presents a data driven public sector framework that can help countries or organisations assess the elements needed for using data to make better informed decisions across public sectors this book aims to provide empirical and conceptual insights into contemporary accounting theories practices education and approaches adopted to advance human capital formation in the discipline although new accounting practices have emerged in the modern world conceptual and empirical research that provides a holistic comprehensive understanding of these evolutions and human capital approaches used to promote capabilities formation in accounting remains scarce contemporary research often focuses on developing a framework for integrating accounting practices while coverage of human capital development is limited instead research strands on accountancy and human capital are growing separately without a comprehensive empirical and conceptual framework for integrating the two concepts insights on accounting practices and human capital developments are necessary for building a holistic understanding of the two concepts and working towards adopting an interdisciplinary approach the findings in this book seek to advocate for the need to develop highly skilled generations who may meet the requisite accounting and financial capabilities required in the modern global economy this book adopts both conceptual and empirical methods to address the gap in the literature on the need for research that focuses on human capital formation in the accounting and finance discipline it contributes an interdisciplinary perspective on the intersectionality between accounting practice and the human capital formation of individuals who possess the requisite knowledge
