this book provides an overall picture of east asian international politics during the early interwar period and examines the various foreign policy trends of the major powers involved including japan china britain the united states and the soviet union based on extensive original research it posits that east asia experienced four waves of international change during the interwar period the transition to the post world war i international order the appearance of nationalist china and the soviet union as actors in east asian international politics the japanese invasion of manchuria and japanese implementation of the north china buffer state strategy it considers the new challenges brought about by each of these waves how the powers particularly japan britain and the united states were able to meet these challenges by working together and how this became more difficult as time went on it argues that the washington system the international order established at the 1921 1922 washington naval conference was not a break with the past as is frequently argued on account of new forms of foreign policy including the ideological approaches of the united states and the soviet union but that rather spheres of influence diplomacy continued as before in addition in discussing japanese foreign policy the book provides a comprehensive picture of the diversity of views towards china among japanese actors and the ways these shifted over time the open access version of this book available at taylorfrancis com has been made available under a creative commons cc by nc nd 4 0 license east asia was a major focus of struggle between the united states and the soviet union during the cold war of 1945 to 1991 with multiple hot and cold conflicts in china korea and vietnam the struggle for predominance in east asia however largely predated the cold war as this book shows with many examples of the united states and russia the soviet union working to exercise and increase control in the region the book focuses on secret treaties 26 of them signed from the mid 1890s through 1950 when secret agreements between china and the ussr including several concerning the chinese eastern railway gave russia greater control over manchuria and outer mongolia one of the most important was negotiated in 1945 when stalin signed the sino soviet friendship treaty with chiang kai shek and the chinese nationalists that included a secret protocol granting the soviet navy sea control over the manchurian littorals this secret protocol excluded the us navy from landing nationalist troops at the major manchurian ports thereby guaranteeing the chinese communist victory in northeast china from manchuria the chinese communists quickly spread south to take all of mainland china to a large degree therefore this formerly undiscussed secret diplomacy set the underlying conditions for the cold war in east asia commissions high is an account of the work of the canadian high commission from 1870 until britain s entry into the european common market one hundred years later roy maclaren argues that until the defeat ofiefenbaker in 1963 there was tension between the forces of imperial later commonwealth solidarity and those of localized nationalism commissions high explores how localized nationalism led canadian politicians to resist british efforts to centralize imperial decision making and shows how the weakening of commonwealth and transatlantic bonds following world war ii contributed to britain s focus on europe and to the increasing domination of canada by the united states the decline of great britain as a world power was the result of long term economic change and two world wars except in a few areas american authorities did not set out to supplant britain indeed until the second world war they were hesitant about the use of power but when they embraced it a variety of factors ensured that it was britain s place that was taken this book offers an authoritative analysis of the stages of displacement and the complex feelings aroused by the process on both sides of the atlantic as such it describes a transfer of power which will surely be seen as one of the most fundamentally important events of the twentieth century
