science and faith in dialogue presents a cogent compelling case for concordance between science and theism the term theism refers in this book to the belief in god s existence within theology the term theism is often used to convey a range of presuppositions about the nature and attributes of god based on scientific and natural theological perspectives two pillars of natural theology are revisited the cosmological argument and the argument from design the book argues that modern science provides undeniable evidence and a scientific basis for these classical arguments to infer a rationally justifiable endorsement of theism as being concordant with reason and science nature is seen as operating orderly on comprehensible rational consistent laws in line with the conviction that god is creator

how did it all begin how do we even start to engage the differences between creation narratives in the christian bible and modern scientific theory the authors of this book explore hermeneutic approaches and developments in biblical studies to set the scene for a religious approach this approach is open to the possibility that a literalist approach to scripture is in fact the most unjustifiable reading of the bible this may profoundly affect how we view god the cosmos and even ourselves to be able to read the bible from the perspective of an open present and future paves the way for suppressed uncertainties to be liberated this paves the way for humankind to freely question all things without being enslaved by imposed religious dogma this is not to say that religion has served its purpose but it is far from it with the rise of technological advancements come other social and anthropological problems not to mention the challenge we face on a global scale with climate change et cetera just as we dare to peek over the edge of a future without religion the authors bring us back to the fundamental teachings of faith traditions christianity in particular they remind us that the solutions to these challenges are to be found in us becoming better humans becoming better humans brings us back into the arena of faith traditions when technology may lead to social disconnection and narcissism religion calls for love of self and neighbour where greed inspired advancements threaten the future of our planet religion teaches us to be in relationship with our environment and to be custodians of it
