what obligations do nations have to protect citizens of other nations as responsibility to our fellow human beings and to the stability of civilization over many years has ripened fully into a concept of a just war it follows naturally that the time has come to fill in the outlines of the realities and boundaries of what constitutes just humanitarian intervention even this book presents the concept of unstaging war as a strategic response to the failure of the discourse and institutions of peace this failure is explained by exploring the changing character of conflict in current and emergent global circumstances such as asymmetrical conflicts insurgencies and terrorism fry argues that this pluralisation of war has broken the binary relation between war and peace conflict is no longer self evident and consequentially the changes in the conditions nature systems philosophies and technologies of war must be addressed through a deep understanding of contemporary war fry explains why peace fails as both idea and process before presenting unstaging war as a concept and nascent practice that acknowledges conflict as structurally present and so is not able to be dealt with by attempts to create peace against a backdrop of increasingly tense relations between global power blocs the beginnings of a new nuclear arms race and the ever increasing human and environmental impacts of climate change a more viable alternative to war is urgently needed unstaging war is not claimed as a solution but rather as an exploration of critical problems and an opening into the means of engaging with them this is the first truly definitive history of the first world war the war that has done most to shape the twentieth century the first generation of its historians had access to only a limited range of sources and their focus was primarily on military events more recent approaches have embraced cultural diplomatic economic and social history in hew strachan's authoritative and readable history these fresh perspectives are incorporated with the military and strategic narrative the result is an account that breaks the bounds of national preoccupations to become both global and comparative to arms the first of three volumes in this magisterial study examines not only the causes of the war and its opening clashes on land and sea but also the ideas that underpinned it and the motivations of the people who supported it it provides full and pioneering accounts of the war's finances of the war in africa and of the central powers bid to widen the war outside europe swanson builds a case that the time has come to set behind us the idea that a war can ever be just this critique of just war theory finds the criteria such theories use to be either unmeasurable unachievable or amoral and the perspective taken too narrow this book argues that belief in the possibility of a just war does tremendous damage by facilitating enormous investment in war preparations which strips resources from human and environmental needs while creating momentum for numerous unjust wars in many ways the arab israeli war of 1948 is typical of the total military conflicts that characterized the first half of the twentieth century however in addition to the military course of the war and its formative and revolutionary ramifications this war was also notable for the social mobilization of the israeli population social mobilization in the arab israeli war of

1948 focuses on these civilian aspects of the war the involvement of the israeli home front in the fighting and the participation of society in the process of mobilization israeli civil society organizations played an active and central role in mobilizing the economy for the war effort mobilizing personnel for military service for labor and for the emergency services and in organizing the home front the function of israeli society and civil organizations in processes of mobilization conducted against the background of the end of the british mandate and the establishment of the state of israel was one of the principal factors that contributed to the israeli military victory in the 1948 war civilian aspects of the 1948 war have received little attention despite the opening of the archives in the 1980s as such social mobilization in the arab israeli war of 1948 is an important contribution particularly for those interested in israeli history jewish history middle eastern history the arab israeli conflict and war studies the essays in anticipating total war explore the discourse on war in germany and the united states between 1871 and 1914 the concept of total war provides the analytical focus the essays reveal vigorous discussions of warfare in several forums among soldiers statesmen women s groups and educators on both sides of the atlantic predictions of long cataclysmic wars were not uncommon in these discussions while the involvement of german and american soldiers in colonial warfare suggested that future combat would not spare civilians despite these anticipations of total war virtually no one realized the practical implications in planning for war in the early twentieth century myths of the cold war amending historiographic distortions provides a corrective for the distortions and omissions of many previous domestic and foreign including russian studies of the cold war especially those published since 2000 the present interest motivation in weeks s analysis is gaining a clear understanding of the bi polar 4 trillion nuclear war threatening standoff that lasted over 40 years after world war ii until the demise of the soviet union in 1991 without such knowledge and understanding of this dangerous conflict any future encounter of the cold war type with another nation state is liable to be construed in confusing ways just as the u s soviet cold war was the consequence of such misunderstanding in the historiographic sense as well as in policy making at the highest level is that the populations of the contending powers will have distorted conceptions of the reasons for the confrontation the result of this in turn is skewed tendentiousness that masks concrete underlying causes of intense inter state contention practical benefits thus flow from an unprejudiced analysis of the past cold war with communist russia this understanding can help prevent a future conflict such as one with communist china which some reputed sinologists are currently predicting as well as one with post soviet russia conversely if a new cold war is imposed on the west a clearer understanding of the post world war ii archetypical cold war will be edifying examining the memoirs and autobiographies of british soldiers during the romantic period neil ramsey explores the effect of these as cultural forms mediating warfare to the reading public during and immediately after the french revolutionary and napoleonic wars forming a distinct and commercially successful genre that in turn inspired the military and nautical novels that flourished in the 1830s military memoirs profoundly shaped nineteenth century british culture s understanding of war as romantic adventure establishing images of the nation s middle class soldier heroes that would be of enduring significance through the nineteenth and twentieth centuries as ramsey shows the military memoir achieved widespread acclaim and commercial success among the reading public of the late romantic era ramsey assesses their influence in relation to romantic culture s wider understanding of war writing autobiography and authorship and to the shifting relationships between the individual the soldier and the nation the memoirs ramsey argues participated in a sentimental response to the period s wars by transforming earlier impersonal traditions of military memoirs into stories of the soldier s personal suffering while the focus on suffering established in part a lasting strand of anti war writing in memoirs by private soldiers such stories also helped to foster a sympathetic bond between the soldier and the civilian that played an important role in developing ideas of a national war and functioned as a central component in a national commemoration of war
