this new edition of lesbianism allows one to understand lesbianism as a way of life the original 1965 1966 research study is included in its entirety unlike freud who based his view that lesbianism was a mental disorder on a single case study this breakthrough and innovative research project concerns interviews and psychological testing of 26 lesbians who were not psychiatric patients and as one would predict these lesbians were not disturbed as far as mental health was concerned the original research was done before homosexuality was removed as a mental disorder it seems odd today to even consider freud s view as accurate we have come a long way in recognizing that one s sexual preference is just that this study was a pioneering one that disproved a false idea that lesbianism was evidence of an emotional disorder and this 2020 edition includes a conversation about the book with rachel rosen who is a lesbian the dialogue between the author and his daughter provides insightful questions and a true understanding of lesbianism

in the last twenty five years americans have gained considerable freedom in thier personal lives relationships are now more flexible and self development has become a primary goal for both men and women most scholars have criticized this trend to greater freedom arguing that it undermines family bonds and promotes selfishness and extreme independence francesca cancion is more optimistic in this book she shows that many american couples succeed in combining self development with commitment and that interdependence not independence is their ideal in interdependent relationships love and self development do not conflict but reinforce each other love in america compares traditional forms of marriage with these newer forms of close relationships starting with the nineteenth century cancion shows how gender roles became polarized with love which was identified with emotional expression no practical help being the responsibility of women while self development was regarded as a masculine concern these traditional images of love and relationships are still held by many americans today even though as cancion points out this can lead to marital conflict and individual stress and illness by contrast new images of love emphasizing self development for men and women and flexible androgynous roles began to emerge around 1900 accelerating in the 1960s she concludes that this trend to self development and androgyny will continue but that whether it will lead to more interdependent relationships or to more independence and isolation depends partly on economic and political changes in the wider society the evidence for cancion s argument comes from sociological historical and psychological sources her book will interest readers in these disciplines as well s appeal to a wide general audience saint ignatius loyola the founder of the jesuits espoused the ideal of becoming contemplatives in action he was convinced that contemplation the deep awareness and appropriation of the unconditional love of god should affect our actions and that our actions need to be brought back to contemplation these five dimensions of the spiritual life 1 the holy eucharist 2 spontaneous prayer 3 the beatitudes 4 partnership with the holy spirit and 5 the contemplative life itself generally do not develop simultaneously or even in parallel ways some develop very quickly but do not achieve significant depth while others develop quite slowly but seem to be almost unending in the depth of wisdom trust hope virtue and love they engender the best way of explaining this is to look at each of the pillars individually before doing this however it is indispensable for each of us to acknowledge at least intellectually the fundamental basis for christian contemplation namely the unconditional love of god jesus taught us to address god as abba if god really is abba if his love is like the father of the prodigal son if jesus passion and eucharist are confirmations of that unconditional love if god really did so love the world that he sent his only begotten son into the world not to condemn us but to save us and bring us to eternal life jn 3 16 19 if nothing really can separate us from the love of god in christ jesus rm 8 31 39 and if god really has prepared us to grasp fully with all the holy ones the breadth and length and height and depth of christ s love and experience this love which surpasses all understanding so that we may attain to the fullness of god himself eph 3 18 20 then god s love is unconditional and it is therefore the foundation for unconditional trust and unconditional hope there can be nothing more important than contemplating affirming appropriating and living in this unconditional love this is the purpose of contemplation indeed the purpose of the spiritual life itself european literature and theory of the twentieth century have been intensely preoccupied with questions of desire whereas love has increasingly represented a fractured and strange if not actually suspect proposal this is a prime symptom of an age of deep cultural mutation and uncertainty paul gifford s book allows this considerable contemporary phenomenon to be observed steadily and whole with strategic understanding of its origins nature and meaning gifford paints a clear and coherent picture of the evolution of erotic ideas and their imaginary and formal expressions in modern french writing he first retraces the formative matrix of french tradition by engaging with five classic sources plato s symposium the song of songs the myth of genesis the tension between greek eros and christian agape and the repercussions of nietzsche s declaration of the death of god modern variations on these perennial problematics are then pursued in ten chapters devoted to proust valéry claudel breton bataille duras barthes irigaray emmanuel kristeva literary and theoretical perspectives are perfectly blended in his study of these attempts at deciphering eros the book will appeal not only to students of french literature but to all those interested in the cultural upheavals of the twentieth century
