this book contains a selection of papers presented at the first forl conference on interpreting studies held on 9 11 november 2000 which saw the participation of leading researchers in the field the volume offers a comprehensive overview of the current situation and future prospects in interpretation studies and in the interpreting profession at the beginning of a new century topics addressed include not only theoretical and methodological issues but also applications to training and quality the range of subjects covered is thus broad and comprehensive particular attention is given to the changing profile of the profession as different modes of interpreting outside the booth i e all forms of dialogue interpreting as well as interpreting for the media give rise to new and stimulating research work the variety of papers in this volume bears witness to the wealth of different perspectives in interpreting studies today it covers topics of interest to scholars of translation and interpretation studies professional interpreters and to anyone interested in language mediation in its theoretical and applied aspects this book revisits a number of key issues in chinese translation studies reflecting on e g what translation studies researchers have achieved in the past and the extent to which the central issues have been addressed and what still needs to be done a group of respected scholars share their expertise in order to identify some tangible directions and potential areas for future research in addition the book discusses a number of key themes e g translation studies as a discipline and its essential characteristics the cultural dimension in translator training paradigms of curriculum design the reform of assessment for professional qualification acts and translation shifts the principle of faithfulness in translation and interpreter s cognitive processing routes the book offers a useful reference guide for a broad readership including graduate students and shares insiders accounts of various current topics and issues in chinese translation studies given its scope it is also a valuable resource for researchers interested in translation studies in the chinese context the volume contains a selection of papers both theoretical and empirical from the european society for translation studies est congress held in copenhagen in september 2001 the est congresses held every three years in a different country reflect current ideas theories and studies covering the whole range of translation both oral and written and the papers collected here authored by both experienced and young translation scholars provide an up to date picture of some concerns in the field topics covered include translation universals linguistic approaches to translation translation strategies quality and assessment issues screen translation the translation of humor terminological issues translation and related professions translation and ideology language brokering by children robert schumann s relation to translation directionality in translation and interpreting community interpreting in italy issues in interpreting for refugees notes in consecutive interpreting interpreting prosody and frequent weaknesses in translation papers in the context of the editorial process this issue of cardiac electrophysiology clinics guest edited by giuseppe bagliani roberto de ponti and fabio leonelli will focus on interpreting complex arrhythmias topics include but are not limited to simple and complex arrhythmias standard ecg recording advanced cardiac signal recording p and qrs in arrhythmias identification analysis and relationship the comparative value of basic and arrhythmia ecg in the interpretation of arrhythmic mechanism challenges in bradycardias interpretation challenges in narrow qrs tachycardia interpretation challenging cases of wide complex tachycardias qrs variations during arrhythmia mechanisms and substrates polymorphic ventricular tachycardia differential diagnosis arrhythmias due to acquired or inherited abnormalities of ventricular repolarization arrhythmias in patients with implantable devices complex arrhythmias due to reversible causes and hidden complexities in routine adult and paediatric arrhythmias interpretation this volume brings both beginning and experienced translators and interpreters up to date on a broad range of issues the seven sections take up success and survival strategies for a language professional including the challenges posed by the changing global economy the impact of new technologies adjustments required by a different legal environment and traditional ethical practices such challenges and changes point to a need for continuing education and networking and for newcomers specialized postsecondary training the issues are as broad as the translator and interpreter s role in the modern world as detailed as advice on setting up a workstation or choosing a degree program the contributors all practicing translators and interpreters discuss also the value of the association and its committees to the profession and its individual members using interaction as a fundamental springboard addressing methodological challenges in interpreting studies research showcases the major breakthrough in interpreting studies made by investigating community interpreting and the inherent high degree of participant interaction the book adds a reflexive twist and espouses the notion of the analyst as not separate from the context under study after looking at dialogue interpreters cast away from the carpeted walls of sound proof booths and deprived of the spotlighted lectern podium position at high level fora it has become clear that the interpreter s invisibility not to mention their neutrality is uppermost in the minds of both users and providers in terms of expectations among all the participants in any mediated communicative situation it is the interpreter who is exceedingly visible and potentially most influential in shaping and coordinating the ongoing exchanges the book proposes that a similar view be applied to researchers engaged in interpreting research especially in empirical investigations different forms of interaction between researchers and the data in their studies are inevitable this applies to every stage of their work ranging from all the pre analysis activities to the analysis itself and the post analysis stage in which results are disseminated in the research community and possibly the target population this volume will stand to benefit all those who work with researching language issues not only because of the various approaches covered in the volume but also because of the ways in which they are reframed as a result of shifting contextual constraints teaching dialogue interpreting is one of the very few book length contributions that cross the research to training boundary in dialogue interpreting the volume is innovative in at least three ways first it brings together experts working in areas as diverse as business interpreting court interpreting medical interpreting and interpreting for the media who represent a wide range of theoretical and methodological approaches second it addresses instructors and course designers in higher education but may also be used for refresher courses and or retraining of in service interpreters and bilingual staff third and most important it provides a set of resources which while research driven are also readily usable in the classroom either together or separately depending on specific training needs and or research interests the collection thus makes a significant contribution in curriculum design for interpreter education while interpreting long remained unaffected by the technological progress that transformed the translation industry recent years have witnessed a paradigm shift such that interpreters increasingly interact with technological tools that the delivery of interpreting services becomes increasingly dependent on technologies and finally that technologies start to emerge that might some day compete with interpreters this volume brings together a series of contributions on interpreting technologies focusing on each of these aspects its goal is to inform and to empower interpreters as well as to spark new reflections on the future of technology in the interpreting industry with this volume we want to encourage interpreters to participate in that reflection and to become partners of technology rather than its victims the next generation of technologies will need a next generation of interpreters this volume provides a critical examination of quality in the interpreting profession by deconstructing the complex relationship between professional norms and ethical considerations in a variety of sociocultural contexts over the past two decades the profession has compelled scholars and practitioners to take into account numerous factors concerning the provision and fulfilment of interpreting building on ideas that began to take shape during an international conference on interpreter mediated interactions commemorating miriam shlesinger held in rome in 2013 the book explores some of these issues by looking at the notion of quality through interpreters self awareness of norms at work across a variety of professional settings contextualising norms and quality in relation to ethical behaviour in everyday practice contributions from top researchers in the field create a comprehensive picture of the dynamic role of the interpreter as it has evolved with key topics revisited by the addition of new contributions from established scholars in the field fostering discussion and further reflection on important issues in the field of interpreting this volume will be key reading for scholars researchers and graduate students in interpreting and translation studies pragmatics discourse analysis and multilingualism
