being disabled becoming a champion is an accessible presentation of current european research on the most recent evolutions in sports for people with disabilities demonstrating knowledge developed from the field of sports practices of people with disabilities it covers three interrelated themes first it covers the different facets of the history of sports organizations set up during the 1950s for athletes with motor or intellectual impairments the second part focuses on the athletes themselves voices are given to the top level athletes in adapted sports people with intellectual impairment the pioneers of wheelchair racing who invented a new discipline off road wheelchair racing and a former paralympic athlete who has become a researcher and a defender of specific sports practices finally the third part interrogates the way support for disabled people can modify the existing definitions and conceptions of the body of disability of what is human and of sports performance this is an ideal text for students and researchers studying and working in the areas of disability studies sport sciences and paralympic studies this book was originally published as a special issue of sport in society this book explores the early advent of electricity as a pivotal phenomenon in the cultivation of popular cultural scientific interest world exhibitions have been widely acknowledged as important sources for understanding the development of the modern consumer and urbanized society yet whilst the function and purpose of architecture at these major events has been well studied the place of food has received very little attention food played a crucial part in the lived experience of the exhibitions for visitors who could acquaint themselves with the latest food innovations exotic cuisines and traditional dishes for officials attending lavish banquets for the manufacturers who displayed their new culinary products and for scientists who met to discuss the latest technologies in food hygiene food stood as a powerful semiotic device for communicating and maintaining conceptions of identity history traditions and progress of inclusion and exclusion making it a valuable tool for researching the construction of national or corporate sentiments combining recent developments in food studies and the history of major international exhibitions this volume provides a refreshing alternative view of these international and intercultural spectacles freedom time reconsiders decolonization from the perspectives of aimé césaire martinique and léopold sédar senghor senegal who beginning in 1945 promoted self determination without state sovereignty as politicians public intellectuals and poets they struggled to transform imperial france into a democratic federation with former colonies as autonomous members of a transcontinental polity in so doing they revitalized past but unrealized political projects and anticipated impossible futures by acting as if they had already arrived refusing to reduce colonial emancipation to national independence they regarded decolonization as an opportunity to remake the world reconcile peoples and realize humanity s potential emphasizing the link between politics and aesthetics gary wilder reads césaire and senghor as pragmatic utopians situated humanists and concrete cosmopolitans whose postwar insights can illuminate current debates about self management postnational politics and planetary solidarity freedom time invites scholars to decolonize intellectual history and globalize critical theory to analyze the temporal dimensions of political life and to question the territorialist assumptions of contemporary historiography
