in recent scholarship there is an emerging interest in the integration of philosophy and theology philosophers and theologians address the relationship between body and soul and its implications for theological anthropology in so doing philosopher theologians interact with cognitive science biological evolution psychology and sociology reflecting these exciting new developments the ashgate research companion to theological anthropology is a resource for philosophers and theologians students and scholars interested in the constructive critical exploration of a theology of human persons throughout this collection of newly authored contributions key themes are addressed human agency and grace the soul sin and salvation christology glory feminism the theology of human nature and other major themes in theological anthropology in historic as well as contemporary contexts written by one of the world s leading international lawyers this is a landmark publication in the teaching of international law international law can be defined as the rules governing the legal relationship between nations and states however with political diplomatic and socio economic factors shaping the law and its application international law is much more complex this refreshingly clear concise textbook encourages students to view international law as a dynamic system of organising the world bringing international law back to its first principles and breathing new life and energy into the subject the book is organised around four questions where does it come from to whom does it apply how does it resolve conflict what does it say this fourth edition includes references to new case law and literature and features brief discussions on recent topics of general interest including the ukraine invasion global health law and energy law it is a widely held belief that human beings are both body and soul that our immaterial soul is distinct from our material body but that traditional idea has been seriously questioned by much recent research in the brain sciences in neuroscience and the soul fourteen distinguished scholars grapple with current debates about the existence and nature of the soul featuring a dialogical format the book presents state of the art work by leading philosophers and theologians some arguing for the existence of the soul others arguing against and then puts those scholars into conversation with critics of their views bringing philosophy theology and neuroscience together in this way brings to light new nuances and significantly advances the ongoing debate over body and soul back of book consciousness is central to the quest for being human and for what the world is made of while there is widespread agreement on the significance of consciousness for clarifying the human condition there is no agreement on the phenomenon in search of theorising although there is no shortage of theories and concepts of consciousness in current consciousness research the dominant critical analysis of consciousness research in this study although based on existing analyses is as far as i can see new and unique in arguing for a crisis in consciousness research this book touches on most aspects of consciousness research the hard problem of consciousness neural correlates of consciousness brain models and consciousness consciousness and dualistic thinking etc but is a critical analysis of consciousness research it is not an insider but a third person perspective on current consciousness research in this regard it differs from most introductions and overviews where these topics are presented from a first person perspective the insiders claim about their research representing the broad spectrum of consciousness research in terms of the theoretical framework of a neuro ecological perspective is a new and innovative move this book aims to enhance understanding of the interactions between the international and national rule of law it demonstrates that the international rule of law is not merely about ensuring national compliance with international law international law and institutions eg international human rights treaty monitoring bodies and human rights courts respond to national contestations and show deference to the national rule of law while this might come at the expense of the certainty of international law it suggests that the international rule of law can allow for flexibility national diversity and pluralism the essays in this volume are set against the background of increasing conflict between international and national legal norms moreover the book shows that international law and institutions do not always command blind national obedience to international law but incorporate a process of adjustment and deference to national law and policies that are protected by the rule of law at the national level the academic discipline of international relations strives to attain a global spirit to narrow the cognitive gaps between the west and the rest on the one hand there is the hegemonic presence of mainstream universalist eurocentric ir theories and on the other the counter hegemonic presence of particularist post colonial and de colonial non eurocentric ir theories nevertheless both theoretical traditions endorse epistemological dualism that essentially separates the theorizing subject from the theorized object thereby failing to bridge the gaps this book uses the monist schema of subject object merger in the ancient indian philosophy of advaita to inaugurate a global ir theory in the global theoretical schema of advaitic monism the apparent particularist reality is supplemented not contradicted with the hidden universalist reality the net result of which is a reconciliation of dualism with monism at the theoretical practical level the possibilities of this reconciliation have not been estimated at either level and as such this untapped intellectual strategy stands to enrich both eurocentric and non eurocentric scholarship. shahi establishes advaita as an alternative epistemological methodological tool to re-imagine the complex realities of contemporary international politics. This fully fledged global international relations theory will appeal to students of international relations, political theory, administrative theory, and philosophy.

This book aims to contribute to our understanding of one of the most pressing issues of modern international law: the relationship between the international legal order on the one hand and the domestic legal orders of over 190 sovereign states on the other hand. The traditional and dominant understanding of this relationship is that there exists a strict separation between the international legal order and domestic legal orders. Processes of legal globalisation and internationalisation have made this relationship much more complex. Legal authority has shifted away from the state in both vertical and horizontal directions, forced by the pressures of interdependence. States have allowed international bodies to oversee and sometimes even implement and enforce domestic legislation at the same time. Private persons are more and more drawn into an internationalized order, increasing cross-border flows of services, goods, and capital mobility, and communication have further undermined any stable notion of what is national and what is international. This book offers several partly complementary and partly competing perspectives that allow us to understand and make sense of the complex interaction between the international and domestic spheres.
