this book argues that society must rethink the notion of formal employment and instead introduce and spread the notion of meaningful work so that societies can become independent of economic growth the excessive consumption of natural resources and the immense emissions resulting from our growth oriented economic system surpass the planetary boundaries despite this society and the economy still strive for economic growth in order to generate jobs to finance the social security system and to assure tax income however these expectations are increasingly unrealistic not least because technological developments such as digitalisation and robotisation will change and limit formal employment opportunities as well against this backdrop the book introduces the notion of meaningful activities that embrace various kinds of work paid and unpaid sequential or in parallel which are meaningful for the worker as well as society as a whole at the same time the authors argue in favour of reduced working time in formal employment furthermore the book also describes the necessary transformations in companies and for consumers for social and tax systems for social services and agriculture innovative and timely this book will be a key resource for professionals and scholars interested in sustainability economics work transformation and post growth studies archaeology has been historically reluctant to embrace the subject of agent based simulation since it was seen as being used to re enact and visualize possible scenarios for a wider generally non scientific audience based on scarce and fuzzy data furthermore modeling in exact terms and programming as a means for producing agent based simulations were simply beyond the field of the social sciences this situation has changed quite drastically with the advent of the internet age data it seems is now ubiquitous researchers have switched from simply collecting data to filtering selecting and deriving insights in a cybernetic manner agent based simulation is one of the tools used to glean information from highly complex excavation sites according to formalized models capturing essential properties in a highly abstract and yet spatial manner as such the goal of this book is to present an overview of techniques used and work conducted in that field drawing on the experience of practitioners
