during the period from 1808 to 1826 the spanish empire was convulsed by wars throughout its dominions in iberia and the americas the conflicts began in spain where napoleon s invasion triggered a war of national resistance the collapse of the spanish monarchy provoked challenges to the colonial regime in virtually all of spain s american provinces and colonial demands for autonomy and independence led to political turbulence and violent confrontation on a transcontinental scale during the two decades after 1808 spanish america witnessed warfare on a scale not seen since the conquests three centuries earlier war and independence in spanish america provides a unified account of war in spanish america during the period after the collapse of the spanish government in 1808 mcfarlane traces the courses and consequences of war combining a broad narrative of the development and distribution of armed conflict with analysis of its characteristics and patterns he maps the main arenas of war traces the major campaigns by and crucial battles between rebels and royalists and places the military conflicts in the context of international political change readers will come away with a fully realized understanding of how war and military mobilization affected spanish american societies and shaped the emerging independent states evaluation cultures draws upon a sample of reflections drawn from organizational practices nationally centered political cultures and ethnic cultures as a framework for understanding how culture influences the work of evaluation two main conclusions seem to emerge first that there exists no single uniform and homogenous national evaluation culture second that the idea of a unified transnational culture of evaluation is an illusion the evaluation community includes a diverse group of professionals a diversity that is not just represented in national or ethnic culture but also in academic backgrounds public and private sector allegiances and personal character the contributors to this book represent in part this diversity by reflecting a range of views evaluation cultures draws upon the experience of senior evaluation practitioners who share their reflections on their practice and experience in order to put forth challenges to purely academic analysis evaluation cultures presents a consistent if not exhaustive attempt to give analytical and empirical sense to all of the cultures of the evaluation community the colonial world a history of european empires 1780s to the present provides the most authoritative in depth overview on european imperialism available it synthesizes recent developments in the study of european empires and provides new perspectives on european colonialism and the challenges to it with a post 1800 focus and extensive background coverage tracing the subject to the early 1700s the book charts the rise and eclipse of european empires robert aldrich and andreas stucki integrate innovative approaches and findings from the new imperial history and look at both the colonial era and the legacies it left behind for countries around the world after they gained independence dividing the text into three complementary sections aldrich and stucki offer an original approach to the subject that allows you to explore different eras of colonisation and decolonisation from early modern european colonialism to the present day overarching themes in colonial history like land and sea the body and representations of colonialism a global range of snapshot colonial case studies such as peru 1780 india 1876 the south pacific 1903 the dutch east indies 1938 and the portuguese empire in africa 1971 this is the essential text for anyone seeking to understand the nature and complexities of modern european imperialism and its aftermath ghana s foreign policy kwame nkrumah s normative legacy and pan africanism examines ghana s foreign policy in the post independence era focusing on the enduring legacy of kwame nkrumah this book also analyzes the complexity of post independence foreign policy decision making and the influence of the post colonial narrative during the cold war in this study charles asante argues that the significance and continuity of nkrumah s legacy is often attributed to his pan africanist leadership on the african continent fervently articulating an independent african foreign policy leaders like nkrumah considered themselves as the redeemers of africa s political and economic vulnerability from its colonial experiences asante finds that in contrast to the positive experience associated with his independence movement for ghana nkrumah could not build the same kind of vision engagement and networks among other african nationalist leaders necessary for successful promotion of a pan african region despite nkrumah s own foreign policy failures in the congo the united states of africa project and his sudden overthrow in 1966 nkrumah s pan african vision is still promoted as an important foreign policy objective by ghana s politicians public servants military and academics george eliot born mary ann evans 1819 1880 was one of the most important writers of the european nineteenth century as well as a pioneering translator of challenging and controversial continental thinkers and an influential editor and essayist although such novels of provincial life as adam bede the mill on the floss and middlemarch have seen her characterised as a thoroughly english writer her reception and immersion in the literary intellectual and political life of europe was remarkable written by a team of leading international scholars the reception of george eliot in europe is the first comprehensive and systematic survey of eliot s place in european culture exploring eliot s deep knowledge of german literature and thought her galvanizing influence on women novelists and translators in countries the executive branch in western democracies has been granted a virtually impossible task expected to imperially direct the life of the nation through thick and thin it is concurrently required to be subservient to legislation meted out by a sovereign parliament drawing on a general argument from constitutional theory that prioritizes dispersal of power over concepts of hierarchy this book argues that the tension between dominance and submission in the executive branch is maintained by the adoption of various forms of fuzziness under which a guise of legality masks the absence of substantive limitation of power under this internal tension vision of constitutionalism the executive branch is simultaneously submissive to law and dominant over it while concepts of substantive legality are compromised building on legal and political science research this volume classifies and analyses thirteen forms of fuzziness ranging from open ended or semi written constitutions to unapplied legislation the study of this unavoidable yet problematic feature of the public sphere is addressed descriptively and normatively adding detailed examples from two fields of law emergency law and air pollution law in two systems the uk and the us the book ends with a call for raising the threshold of judicial review grounded in theories of participatory and deliberative democracy this book addresses an area that is surprisingly under researched despite the increase in executive power across democratic polities and increasing public interest in the executive branch and executive powers this much needed book offers a theoretical foundation that should ground all analysis of arguably the most powerful branch of modern government constitutional politics is exceptionally intense and unpredictable it involves negotiations over the very nature of the state and the implications of self determination multinational democracies face pressing challenges to the existing order because they are composed of communities with distinct cultures histories and aspirations striving to coexist under mutually agreed upon terms conflict over the recognition of these multiple identities and the distribution of power and resources is inevitable and indeed part of what defines democratic life in multinational societies in constitutional politics in multinational democracies andré lecoures nikola brassard dion and guy laforest bring together experts on multinational democracies to analyze the claims of minority nations about their political future and the responses they elicit through constitutional politics essays focus on the nature of these states and the actors and political process within them this framework allows for a multidimensional examination of crucial political periods in these democracies by assessing what constitutional politics is who is involved in it and how it happens case studies include catalonia and spain puerto rico and the united states scotland and the united kingdom belgium bosnia and herzegovina and quebec and the métis people in canada theoretically significant and empirically rich constitutional politics in multinational democracies is a necessary read for any student of multinationalism

in the current era the vocabulary soldier and student rarely come together in one complete word because usually someone can only become a soldier after completing their primary and secondary education as a student however this was not the case in the era of indonesia s war of independence at that time the words student army were actually synonymous with the heroic role played by high school and middle school students in the armed struggle to defend independence in the period 1945 1949 based on the dynamics of events that have occurred since the proclamation of independence on 17 august 1945 followed by escalation which culminated in the outbreak of fighting on 10 november 1945 in surabaya the resilience and fighting spirit of the young republic was tested for the first time in a baptism of fire in the midst of the vicious fighting that raged in surabaya a group of armed students consolidated themselves into the student army of the republic of indonesia trip east java command this book immortalizes the journey of the trip troops struggle starting from surabaya mid october 1945 to trip s rear guard role in protecting the retreat of republican troops from surabaya to defensive positions centered in malang throughout 1946 and their subsequent withdrawal from malang after the first dutch military aggression on 21 july 1947 the struggle then continued to the interior of the slopes of mount kelud and arjosari to the tapal kuda area and the southern coast of east java around banyuwangi until the recognition of indonesia s sovereignty on 27 december 1949 everything was done by walking and walking and walking crossing hundreds of kilometers of paths in the wilderness full of thorns and venomous animals muddy village roads and the hot asphalt of burning roads often barefoot with no foot gear let alone combat shoes with weapons slung faithfully on his shoulder in several stages this journey even involved having to pull and push field artillery piece while repelling air attacks moving silently as a guerrilla unit attacking and disappearing spreading frustration and striking fear on the part of the colonial troops it is not surprising that field marshall of the tni ret dr ah nasution wrote in his memoir entitled fulfilling the call of duty edition 5 around the indonesian war of independence as follows of the many incidents of patriotism and heroism that have been officially reported the most prominent is the heroic feats demonstrated by the members of the trip units this book is about them from them by them for the indonesian nation who shall enter paradise recounts in detail the history of christian muslim engagement in a core area of sub saharan africa s most populous nation home to roughly equal numbers of christians and muslims it is a region today beset by religious violence in the course of which history has often been told in overly simplified or highly partisan terms this book reexamines conversion and religious identification not as fixed phenomena but as experiences shaped through cross cultural encounters experimentation collaboration protest and sympathy shobana shankar relates how christian missions and african converts transformed religious practices and politics in muslim northern nigeria during the colonial and early postcolonial periods although the british colonial authorities prohibited christian evangelism in muslim areas and circumscribed missionary activities a combination of factors including mahdist insurrection the abolition of slavery migrant labor and women s evangelism brought new converts to the faith by the 1930s however this organic growth of christianity in the north had given way to an institutionalized culture based around medical facilities established in the hausa emirates the end of world war ii brought an influx of demobilized soldiers who integrated themselves into the local christian communities and reinvigorated the practice of lay evangelism in the era of independence muslim politicians consolidated their power by adopting many of the methods of missionaries and evangelists in the process many christian men and formerly non muslim communities converted to islam a vital part of northern nigerian christianity all but vanished becoming a religion of outsiders

the dissolution of the soviet union has provided scholars with tremendously rich material for the study of comparative nation building not since the decolonization of africa in the 1960s have so many new states been established in one stroke in one region the post soviet states moreover have all the necessary prerequisites for fruitful comparison a number of similarities but also significant differences in terms of size culture and recent history in order to survive in the long run modern states normally must have a population that possesses some sense of unity its citizens must adhere to some common values and common allegiance towards the same state institutions and symbols this does not means that all inhabitants must necessarily share the same culture but they should at least regard themselves as members of the same nation strategies to foster this kind of common nationhood in a population are usually referred to as nation building after a decade of post soviet nation building certain patterns are emerging and not always the most obvious ones some states seem to manage well against high odds while others appear to be disintegrating or sinking slowly into oblivion to a remarkable degree the former soviet republics have chosen different models for their nation building this book examines the preconditions for these endeavors the goals the state leaders are aiming at and the means they employ to reach them
