no extant text gives so vivid a glimpse into the experience of an ancient prisoner as paul's letter to the philippians as a letter from prison however it is not what one would expect for although it is true that paul like some other ancient prisoners speaks in philippians of his yearning for death what he expresses most conspicuously is contentment and even joy setting aside pious banalities that contrast true joy with happiness and leaving behind too heroic depictions that take their cue from acts abject joy offers a reading of paul's letter as both a means and an artifact of his provisional attempt to make do by outlining the uses of punitive custody in the administration of rome's eastern provinces and describing the prison's complex place in the social and moral imagination of the greek and roman world ryan schellenberg provides a richly drawn account of paul's nonelite social context where bodies and their affects were shaped by acute contingency and habitual susceptibility to violent subjugation informed by recent work in the history of emotions and with comparison to modern prison writing and ethnography provoking new questions and insights schellenberg describes paul's letter as an affective technology wielded at once on paul himself and on his addressees that works to strengthen his grasp on the very joy he names abject joy paul prison and the art of making do by ryan's schellenberg is a social history of prison in the greek and roman world that takes paul's letter to the philippians as its focal instance or to put it the other way around a study of paul's letter to the philippians that takes the reality of prison as its starting point examining ancient perceptions of confinement and placing this ancient evidence in dialogue with modern prison writing and ethnography it describes paul's urgent and unexpectedly joyful letter as a witness to the perplexing art of survival under constraint french is impossible to learn i've been learning it for years and i'm going nowhere fast i'm stuck on the french learning plateau no matter what i do my progress has stalled and i just can't catch a break i understand everything in my french course but when i'm tossed into the wild it feels like what i've learned and how french is actually spoken and used are two wildly different things what resources are available to french learners is duolingo any good when should i start using native material why can't french people understand me why do they keep speaking english to me when i speak french to them if you find yourself thinking the same thing i've got good news for you this book gives english speaking french learners practical insight into how the language actually works in real life this is not a french grammar textbook rather it supplements academic french by bringing the language to life it's filled with tips shortcuts and a ha moments gathered over years of learning french as an english speaker the book highlights key differences between english and french anchoring french in concepts you already know helping you transition from translating from english in your head to actually thinking in french if you want to turbocharge the french you already know and finally make it usable in everyday life this is the resource you've been looking for
