the papers in this volume provide a contrastive application of construction grammar by referencing a well described constructional phenomenon in english each paper provides a solid foundation for describing and analyzing its constructional counterpart in another language this approach shows that the semantic description including discourse pragmatic and functional factors of an english construction can be regarded as a first step towards a tertium comparationis that can be employed for comparing and contrasting the formal properties of constructional counterparts in other languages thus the meaning pole of constructions should be regarded as the primary basis for comparisons of constructions across languages the form pole is only secondary this volume shows that constructions are viable descriptive and analytical tools for cross linguistic comparisons that make it possible to capture both language specific idiosyncratic properties as well as cross linguistic generalizations
