in ten lectures on cognitive linguistics and the unification of spoken and signed languages sherman wilcox suggests that rather than abstracting away from the material substance of language linguists can discover the deep connections between signed and spoken languages by taking an embodied view this embodied solution reveals the patterns and principles that unite languages across modalities using a multidisciplinary approach wilcox explores such issues as the how to apply cognitive grammar to the study of signed languages the pervasive conceptual iconicity present throughout the lexicon and grammar of signed languages the relation of language and gesture the grammaticization of signs the significance of motion for understanding language as a dynamic system and the integration of cognitive neuroscience and cognitive linguistics the theory of literary worlds has become increasingly important in comparative and world literatures but how are the often contradictory elements of eastern and western literatures to cohere in the new worlds such contact creates drawing on the latest work in philosophical logic and analytic asian philosophy this monograph proposes a new model of literary worlds that is best suited to comparative literature dealing with western and east asian traditions unlike much discussion of world literature anchored in north american traditions featured here is the transnational work of artists philosophers and poets writing in english french japanese and mandarin in the twentieth century rather than imposing sharp borders this book suggests that vague boundaries link eastern and western literary works and traditions and that degrees of distance can better help us to see the multiple dimensions that both distinguish and join together literary worlds east and west as such it enables us to grasp not only how east asian and western writers translate one another s works into their own languages and traditions but also how modern writers east and west modify their own traditions in order to make them fit in the new constellation of literary worlds brought about by the complex flow of literary information across twentieth century eurasia two problems continually arise in the sciences and humanities according to mario bunge parts and wholes and the origin of novelty in emergence and convergence he works to address these problems as well as that of systems and their emergent properties as exemplified by the synthesis of molecules the creation of ideas and social inventions along the way bunge examines further topical problems such as the search for the mechanisms underlying observable facts the limitations of both individualism and holism the reach of reduction the abuses of darwinism the rational choice hermeneutics feud the modularity of the brain vs the unity of the mind the cluster of concepts around maybe the uselessness of many worlds metaphysics and semantics the hazards posed by bayesianism the nature of partial truth the obstacles to correct medical diagnosis and the formal conditions for the emergence of a cross discipline bunge is not interested in idle fantasies but about many of the problems that occur in any discipline that studies reality or ways to control it his work is about the merger of initially independent lines of inquiry such as developmental evolutionary biology cognitive neuroscience and socio economics bunge proposes a clear definition of the concept of emergence to replace that of supervenience and clarifies the notions of system real possibility inverse problem interdiscipline and partial truth that occur in all fields
