racial ethnic gender and class representations in margaret laurence s writings is a study on canada canadian literature and margaret laurence s works in particular thus addressing various kinds of readership this book avoids the danger of limiting the approach to solely focusing attention on canada by presenting a thorough analysis of various literary genres allowing the book to be of interest to all literature lovers furthermore the book explores the parallelism between life and fiction emphasising laurence s biographic and realist elements and their influence on the writer s fictional writing revealing real and imaginary worlds which would appeal to anybody s literary needs this major contribution to the already existent criticism of margaret laurence s works lies in the analysis of her work as an entity balancing both terms of the common binary oppositions fiction versus non fiction africa versus canada white versus black or metis in spite of critical comments which might be raised andreea topor constantin comments on how the voice of the marginal makes itself heard throughout the author s books underlying laurence s emphasis on characterisation and her genuine concern for people this book covers all aspects of laurence s life and fiction from the african to the writer s canadian background from adults to children s literature from novels to short stories from essays to letters in order to challenge readers perceptions of race ethnicity gender and class the true story of the first california cult scandal in 1891 a suffragist and social reformer named alzire chevaillier launched a moral crusade to destroy fountaingrove a utopian spiritualist community in northern california chevaillier accused the colony s leader the poet and prophet thomas lake harris of perverting the teachings of the bible to promote a new sexology that was worse than mormonism she insisted that harris used magical powers of hypnosis to take sexual and financial advantage of his followers turning them into a spiritual harem that practiced free love and other gross immoralities media reports emphasized the presence of japanese immigrant men at fountaingrove raising racialized specters of miscegenation and moral contamination the international scandal full of the sorts of salacious details prized by newspaper editors at the dawn of the era of yellow journalism would last more than a decade establishing harris as the prototype for a new type of public menace the california cult leader unholy sensations takes a close up look at the fountaingrove scandal to examine religion gender sexuality and race in the gilded age from a fresh perspective by chronicling the life stories of the people swept up in the scandal unholy sensations reveals connections and tensions between a wide variety of nineteenth century religious and social groups including suffragists and spiritualists christian scientists and theosophists journalists and politicians and protestant ministers and urban reformers together these disparate groups helped spark california s first cult scare demonizing harris as the first but far from the last dangerous california cult leader by showing that the term cult has always been a marker of race sexuality and religion unholy sensations reveals the limits of american freedom and the centrality of religion to the policing of whiteness family and nation laurence clark the sole survivor of the moribund virus doesn t look ninety seven years old in fact he looks just as he did when he was cryogenically frozen over half a century ago at that time the u s was trying to recover from a depression hitler was rising to power and the government took radical measures to create a new kind of viral weapon using the residents of estoso arizona as test subjects for secret medical experimentation while everyone else was killed by these tests laurence s reaction was different what didn t kill him made him stronger much stronger in him the final cure was perfected enhancing his senses and abilities preventing aging and leaving him nearly invincible however things go from bad to worse in the underground research facility and laurence must be placed in deep cryogenic sleep when he awakens he finds that the world isn t the only thing that has changed as time goes on laurence discovers the people who revived him are not who they say they are and he is forced to make decisions that could jeopardize the secrecy of the weapon he carries inside his body will he be able to uncover the truth before it s too late and stop those who would use the final cure for evil from accomplishing their deadly goal
