mountaineers rock climbers and science educators around the 1920s rock climbing separated from mountaineering to become a separate sport at that time european climbers developed new equipment and techniques enabling them to ascend mountain faces and to climb rocks which were considered unassailable up to that time american climbers went further by expanding and improving on the equipment they even developed a system of quantification where points were given for the degree of difficulty of an ascent this system focused primarily on the pitch of the mountain and it even calculated up to decimals to give a high degree of quantification rock climbing became a technical system csikszentmihaly 1976 observed that the sole interest of rock climbers at that time was to climb the rock rock climbers were known to reach the top and not even glance around at the scenery the focus was on reaching the top of the rock in contrast mountaineers saw the whole mountain as a single unit of perception the ascent to them is a gestalt including the aesthetic historical personal and physical sensations csikszentmihaly 1976 p 486 this is an example of two contrasting approaches to the same kind of landscape and of two different groups of people interestingly in the us europe and japan a large segment of the early rock climbers were young mathematicians and theoretical physicists while the mountaineers were a more varied lot debate about church order has gone on for centuries within christianity and an end is nowhere in sight perhaps that is good since the debate shows the weaknesses of many ideas that need correction corporate decision making examines church order from a careful exegetical perspective with particular attention to the social world of the new testament while most works about church government address structure and qualities of leadership brown deals with the interaction of the people of the church both with their leaders and with one another in setting policy in brief though all believers in the young church of the new testament revered christ and his word as authoritative not all church decisions were top down from earthly leaders on the contrary many were from the bottom up this should come as no surprise to those familiar with jesus admonition in the gospels you have one teacher and you are all brothers china's role in international peacekeeping has greatly expanded during the leadership of hu jintao and china has since become a significant contributor to peacekeeping operations pkos in africa the importance of the book is expressed in the view that peacekeeping intervention is a tool that strengthens or fulfills policy goals in the united nations mission in liberia unmil the un stabilization mission in the democratic republic of the congo monusco and the un mission in darfur unamid china has considerable interests at stake in africa in terms of promoting economic cooperation or gaining access to natural resources in order to maintain these efforts it is imperative that a secure and stable environment is created not only to maintain diplomatic relations with its african partners but also to express the harmonious worldview and peaceful development concepts which rose to prominence under the presidency of hu jintao the purpose of this book is therefore to examine the extent to which peacekeeping intervention contributes to china's relations with these countries two models are employed to shed light on this thesis the rational actor model ram developed by graham allison is used in the first instance to explain the goals for each country the options considered to reach the goals the consequences or outcomes of choice that will ensure whether a particular option is chosen and then selecting the option that has the consequences that rank the highest in the leadership's payoff function however the leadership in policy formulation does not always act in a unitary fashion and often needs the input of governmental actors to produce results in decision making therefore the bureaucratic politics model bpm of allison is used in the second instance to indicate the bargaining influencing and compromising positions of the bureaucracy that has reinforced the rational decisions of the leadership the main findings are that peacekeeping interventions serve as a mechanism to facilitate cooperation is significant to china s goals in the mission countries and influence and shape bargaining that occur between bureaucratic actors regarding peacekeeping why do judges study legal sources that originated outside their own national legal system and how do they use arguments from these sources in deciding domestic cases based on interviews with judges this book presents the inside story of how judges engage with international and comparative law in the highest courts of the united kingdom canada the united states france and the netherlands a comparative analysis of the views and experiences of the judges clarifies how the decision making of these western courts has developed in light of the internationalisation of law and the increased opportunities for transnational judicial communication while the qualitative analysis reveals the motives that judges claim for using foreign law and the influence of globalist and localist approaches to judging the author also finds suggestions of a convergence of practices between the courts that are the subject of this study this empirical analysis is complemented by a constitutional theoretical inquiry into the procedural and substantive factors of legal evolution which enable or constrain the development and possible convergence of highest courts practices the two strands of the analysis are connected in a final contextual reflection on the future development of the role of western highest courts the north east of england in the eighteenth century was a region where many different kinds of musical activity thrived and where a wide range of documentation survives such activities included concert giving teaching tuning and composition as well as music in the theatre and in church dr roz southey examines the impulses behind such activities and the meanings that local people found inherent in them it is evident that music could be perceived or utilized for extremely diverse purposes as entertainment as a learned art as an aid to piety as a profession a social facilitator and a support to patriotism and nationalism musical societies were established throughout the century and southey illustrates the social make up of the members as well as the role of gentlemen amateurs in the organizing of concerts and the connections with london and other centres the book draws upon a rich selection of source material including local newspapers council and ecclesiastical records private papers and diaries and accounts of local tradesman as well as surviving examples of music composed in the area by charles avison thomas ebdon and john garth of durham amongst many others charles avison s importance is focused upon particularly and his essay on musical expression is considered alongside other contemporary writings of lesser fame southey provides a fascinating insight into the type and social class of audiences and their influence on the repertoire performed the book moves from a consideration of music being used as a fashion item evidenced by the patronage of big name soloists from London and abroad to fiddlers ballad singers music at weddings funerals public celebrations and music for marking the events of the American War of Independence and the French Revolutionary Wars it can be seen therefore that the North East was an area of important musical activity and that the music was always interwoven into the political economic religious and commercial fabric of eighteenth century life ethical predicaments are endemic for mental health professionals working in a host setting like schools new interventions evolving technologies and a patchwork of ethical guidelines and legal codes create a constant stream of new ethical dilemmas quick answers and simple solutions are rare but with the seven stage model presented here readers will learn to apply an ethical decision making process that minimizes their liability while better protecting their students beginning with an introduction to the moral legal and clinical foundations that undergird ethical practice the authors outline an ethical decision making process to handle conundrums that includes seven major steps know yourself analyze the dilemma seek consultation identify courses of action manage the clinical concerns enact the decision and reflect on the process each chapter describes these steps in detail provides case examples to illustrate their application and presents exercises that encourage readers to integrate them into their everyday practice this handy guide is written for the school social workers school psychologists school nurses and school counselors who are responsible for acting in their students best interests as well as post secondary students studying to enter one of these professions it will be a trusted resource for school services professionals seeking clear but nuanced guidance in resolving thorny ethical issues claim making the everyday strategies through which citizens pursue rights fulfilment is often overlooked in studies of political behavior which tend to focus on highly visible pivotal moments elections mass protests high court decisions legislative decisions but what of the politics of the everyday this element takes up this question drawing together research from Colombia South Africa India and Mexico the authors argue that claim making is a distinct form of citizenship practice characterized by its everyday nature which is neither fully programmatic nor clientelistic and which is prevalent in settings marked by gaps between the state's de jure commitments to rights and their de facto realization under these conditions claim making is both meaningful there are rights to be secured and necessary fulfillment is far from guaranteed claim making of this kind is of critical consequence both materially and politically with the potential to shape how citizens engage or disengage the state in Spain as in most countries the real obstacle to effective and efficient delivery of key infrastructure is not the availability of finance but rather problems of governance this review examines the transport infrastructure governance framework in Spain against OECD good practices it identifies the main governance bottlenecks for the development of transport infrastructure projects and provides a comparison with what other countries have done to alleviate similar bottlenecks decision making pervades all aspects of midwifery practice across the world midwifery is informed by a number of decision making theories but it is sometimes difficult to marry these theories with practice this book provides a comprehensive exploration of decision making for midwives irrespective of where in the world they practice or in which model of care the first part critically reviews decision making theories including the enhancing decision making assessment in midwifery edam tool and their relevance to midwifery it explores the links between midwifery governance including professional regulation and the law risk and safety and decision making as well as how critical thinking and reflection are essential elements of decision making it then goes on to present a number of diverse case studies demonstrating how they interrelate to and impact upon optimal midwifery decision making each chapter presents examples that show how the theory translates into practice and includes activities to reinforce learning points bringing together a diverse range of contributors this volume will be essential reading for midwifery students practising midwives and midwifery academics the purpose of this book is to offer higher education leaders scholars consultants and observers a full range of strategy tools that can be applied to the higher education industry this is accomplished by a introducing new concepts and tools to give a comprehensive view of strategy making in higher education beyond strategic planning b demonstrating the value of the concepts and tools through description and application for different types of institutions universities community colleges for profit colleges etc and at different levels within institutions institutional college department etc and c providing guidance on the appropriate uses of the various tools the last point is especially important as applying business like principles to higher education often receives heavy criticism the book helps readers decipher the appropriate uses of different strategy tools to the higher education industry but the book also points out dangers and weaknesses all of this is done within today s context of political economic demographic and global realities although the kyoto protocol an international agreement to address global climate change has been regarded by many as an unsuccessful treaty both politically and environmentally it stands as one of the world s few truly global agreements why did such a diverse group of countries decide to sign and or ratify the treaty why did they choose to do so at different times and in different ways what explains their foreign policy behavior amy below s book builds off the increasing significance of climate change and uses the kyoto protocol as a case study to analyze foreign policy decision making in latin america below s study takes a regional perspective in order to examine why countries in latin america made disparate foreign policy choices when they were faced with the same decision the book looks at the decisions in argentina mexico and venezuela via a process tracing method below uses information obtained from primary and secondary documents and elite interviews to help reconstruct the processes and augments her reconstruction with a content analysis of conference of the parties speeches by presidents and country delegates the book complies with convention in the field by arguing that systemic national and individual level factors simultaneously impact foreign policy decisions but makes the additional claim that role theory most accurately accounts for relationships between variables environmental politics and foreign policy decision making in latin america considers a variety of factors on individual national and international levels of analysis and show that the foreign policy decisions are best viewed through the prism of role theory the book also draws conclusions about the value of role theory in general and about environmental foreign policy decisions in developing countries which will be of value to both policy makers and

this book explores how the policy making process is changing in the very volatile conditions of present day mainland china taiwan and hong kong it considers the overall background conditions the need to rebalance in mainland china after years of hectic economic growth governance transition and democratic consolidation in taiwan and governance crisis in hong kong under a regime of uncertain legitimacy it examines the various actors in the policy making process the civic engagement of ordinary people and the roles of legislators mass media and bureaucracy and discusses how these actors interact in a range of different policy cases throughout the book contrasts the different approaches in the three different jurisdictions and assesses how the policy making process is changing and how it is likely to change further students of the bible are generally comfortable with their understanding of the command make disciples matt 28 19 indeed most of them would argue that the gospel writer matthew spells out very clearly the meaning of the term in the great commission matt 28 16 20 by utilizing three key words viz go ing baptizing and teaching this point of view is the result of centuries of scholarly opinion that has looked primarily if not solely to these three adjacent participles of make disciples matt 28 19 and not to the entire gospel of matthew for the meaning of the command this book does not suggest that going baptizing and teaching are not to be considered in determining the essence of christian disciple making rather it contends that the three terms should not be our only source of meaning this problem is tackled herein by demonstrating that matthew establishes a framework within the great commission itself that points to a fuller meaning of make disciples in the broader context of his gospel and that the gospel writer expects his reader to draw on his entire gospel to grasp the full meaning of this important command
