the central aim of this book is to consider to what extent changes in organisations and in the nature of jobs are compatible with the need increasingly expressed by employees for greater integration between work and family life the book questions what sort of dilemmas modern and future employees face in terms of shaping their careers and organising their lives at home the authors formulate answers to these problematic questions by shedding light on relevant developments in the european labour markets the european workplaces in flexible working patterns changing preferences for working hours and in gender relations at work changing life patterns in western industrial societies adopting a longitudinal approach this book examines the dynamics of union and family formation in france and its effects on various aspects of life such as employment intergenerational transfers etc drawing on data from a survey in which the same respondents were interviewed three times at three year intervals the book explores how demographic behaviours are influenced across the life course at individual level and assesses some of their consequences the contributors give a clear understanding of how family behaviours are constructed and redefined they track changes in respondents lives in order to pinpoint the factors that prevent couples from realizing their fertility intentions for example or to identify certain determinants of union formation or dissolution they also provide a more detailed picture of the changes that shape family behaviours such as the impact of a birth on the working career or on intergenerational support and much more using longitudinal data from the french version of the generations and gender survey ggs this book addresses family and childbearing behaviours dynamically as processes that interact with each other and with the other components of each individual s life course if the future of any society can be pinpointed it is with the teachers who help form the citizens of tomorrow sometimes their impact is equal to the parents and sometimes surpasses it by not a small measure but how must teachers change to be sure that they move with the times and do not lose that role in society this book delves into this issue this book deals with women and socioeconomic change in twentieth century sweden the main focus is on how women s education and labor force participation have affected fertility over time although many perceive sweden as a country where men and women hav

this volume comprises the papers and debates of the second france ilo symposium on the future of work employment and social protection reflecting the aim of the symposium itself the book provides in depth reflections on work employment and social protection designed to be more than an account of the discussions this book is a useful tool for all those interested in labour market transition and the increasing importance of female labour for the future of the labour markets particularly in the developed world the book discusses the need for more family friendly policies and a more radical policy of equality between the sexes the legal dimensions of labour market change are also debated and the book explores the positive and negative sides of globalization and its links with technological change
