woven around the pursuits of the energetic spirits and erudite scholars of the university of st john and the holy ghost this dazzling trilogy of novels lures the reader into a world of mysticism historical allusion and gothic fantasy that could only be the invention of canada's grand man of letters robertson davies's cornish trilogy a reader's guide is the first book length study of davies's best work the rebel angels what's bred in the bone and the lyre of orpheus in the rebel angels maria and darcourt alternate in narrating the novel's theme obsession before escaping from its grip by their mutual assistance while other characters are less fortunate what's bred in the bone narrates the artistic development of canadian painter francis cornish which is crowned by his stunning marriage at cana an iconographic presentation of his personal myth a color reproduction of bronzino's allegory exemplifies their stylistic kinship while the lyre of orpheus is ostensibly focused on the completion and staging of an unfinished hoffmann opera it narrates the ameliorative personal development of the characters who interact during that project robertson davies uses his magical touch to weave together the destinies of this remarkable cast of characters creating a wise and witty portrait of love murder and scholarship at a modern university completing the survey begun in lams cornish trilogy volume aspects of robertson davies novels discusses the salterton and deptford trilogies along with davies last two novels murder walking spirits and the cunning man the apprentice effort tempest tost and the journeyman's success leaven of malice were followed by davies first genuinely fine novel a mixture of frailties the story of a talented salterton girl who becomes a world famous soprano the deptford trilogy is discussed in terms of northrop frye's confession form as it appears in fifth business and in variations of that form in the manticore and world of wonders although davies jungian enthusiasms produced certain flaws to which readers have objected murder walking spirits is by no means a failure it is best understood as an implicit spiritual history of canada which is adumbrated in the generational experience of a single canadian family the cunning man concludes davies career with a narrative as rewardingly complex as any of the cornish trilogy novels davies triumphantly concludes the trilogy begun with the rebel angels the cornish foundation is thriving under the tutelage of arthur cornish art expert collector connoisseur and notable eccentric annotated bibliography of the arthurian legend in modern english language fiction not only in literary texts but in television music and art the legend of arthur has been a source of fascination for writers and artists in english since the fifteenth century when thomas malory drew together for the first time in english a variety of arthurian stories from a number of sources to form the morte d'arthur it increased in popularity during the victorian era when after tennyson's treatment of the legend not only authors and dramatists but painters musicians and film makers found a source of inspiration in the arthurian material this interdisciplinary annotated bibliography lists the arthurian legend in modern english language fiction from 1500 to 2000 including literary texts film television music visual art and games it will prove an invaluable source of reference for students of literary and visual arts general readers collectors librarians and cultural historians indeed by anyone interested in the history of the ways in which camelot has figured in post medieval english speaking cultures ann f howey is assistant professor at brock university canada stephen r reimer is associate professor at the university of alberta canada the novels of australia's nobel laureate patrick white 1912-1990 are a persistent commentary on nietzsche's proclamation of god's death as white knew the proclamation was not about god's existence but about classical views of god it presented him with the impossible task of using language to describe what language cannot describe this has always been one of the more misunderstood aspects of his literary vision because the announcement is often interpreted in antithetical ways atheistic theistic secular religious humanistic and fatalistic critics should gain a better understanding of what white was trying to achieve by comparing him with his post war contemporaries from england scotland and canada iris murdoch william golding muriel spark and robertson davies after and because of the war these authors all commented on the consequences of god's death along with white they worked with a shared pattern of tropes to explore the light and dark aspects of western consciousness and the civilization it has produced where did the pattern come from was it metaphysical or metapsychological these questions are complex as the pattern came from many sources simultaneously and synergistically but this book tackles these questions by describing that pattern this book considers how textual interpretation has been influenced by post kantian philosophy and aesthetics particularly the cultural transition from the correspondence theory of knowledge and truth to nietzschean perspectivism and the canonical transition from classicism to romanticism to modernism to postmodernism it discusses the principles of interpretation the concept of reason logos and how the west s model of mind evolved the novels of jane austen introduce the concept of classicism including her debt to aristotle s thinking about tragedy and comedy in poetics the two trajectories of romanticism are discussed the philosophical trajectory through berlin s idea of counter enlightenment the immanent critique of metaphysics and the aesthetic trajectory through blake s vision of what is possible if the doors of perception can be cleansed the novels of australia s patrick white introduce the concept of modernism and his attempt to imagine the real the novels of margaret atwood introduce the concept of postmodernism tracing her literary evolution from an author focused on female identity to one concerned with the future of humanity the novels of graham greene and muriel spark are discussed as two different catholic responses to modernism the novels of marilynne robinson and douglas wilson are discussed as two different protestant responses to calvinism opinion the guide offers a discriminating and sometimes controversial view of a broad range of contemporary literatures praise for the print edition comprehensive recommended with contributions from great britain ireland america canada australia india and southern africa influenced by great novelists working in other languages and encompassing a range of genres the story of the novel in english unfolds like a richly varied landscape that invites exploration rather than a linear journey
