enter the ring takes a fresh powerful vulnerable approach to marriage by framing it as the fight that it is the world uses different assaults and tactics to distract us tempting us to walk away in order to destroy our marriages but there is hope the constant forgiveness grace and intervention of god can preserve and protect us from not only the world but also ourselves d a and elicia horton explore the tension of two people becoming one and how spouses often fight over which one of us they become they unpack topics such as seasons of suffering communication sexual and physical intimacy the spiritual life of the home money this book approaches the traditional topics of a marriage book with the brutal and life giving honesty of two millennials who have fought together for their marriage all topics are addressed through the vulnerable lens of the authors own struggles and mistakes this is a no holds barred real world marriage book this book explores literary representations of cultural hybridity spanning nearly half a century a period marked by major shifts in franco vietnamese relations how can identity be thought and represented outside of the oppositional categories that divide cultures histories languages and races can the intercultural subject be understood as more than a site of cultural contestation as anything other than a confrontation between incompatible binary opposites this book offers compelling responses to these questions through a series of close readings of francophone novels written by vietnamese authors during and just after the colonial period while many contemporary studies of cultural hybridity tend to privilege the postmodern deconstructive play of postcolonial identities disorientation seeks to uncover what is often obscured in such celebratory analyses the rigid and potentially traumatic conditions under which colonized subjects experienced the tensions and contradictions of intercultural identity the close readings that form the core of the book are inflected by cultural and historical considerations and informed by a range of primary documents that includes training manuals for colonial administrators works of imperialist propaganda tourist guidebooks and travel writing and textbooks from franco vietnamese schools these contextualized analyses recast the problem of interculturality in an asian francophone context expanding the historical and cultural fields within which questions of identity and difference are currently discussed and offering a striking perspective from which to question postcolonial theories of hybridity life from the dead is an in depth study of the incredible endurance of the jewish people in history despite ongoing systematic and unrelenting efforts to effect their genocide the survival of the jewish people is notk however merely a testimony to their own resiliency or ingenuity it is a testimonmy to the utter faithfulness of their god to maintain the integrity of the covenant he made with abraham isaac and jacob your faith in god will be enriched as you read these dramatic subjects daily prayer as good as dead can these bones live the god wrestler from the pit to the palace a resurrected nation by my spirit says the lord mashiach life from the dead the god of israel is the ruler over death and life as such he can heal the sick and restore the terminally ill to life and in the end he will keep faith with the righteous who are in the dust of the earth by bringing them forth to life from the dead in the resurrection life from the dead will build you faith in god s power to triumph over death and to bring abundant life to all those who put their trust in him the modern trajectory of middle eastern east asian interactions has garnered very little scholarly attention and scrutiny the two way connection between both regions have witnessed a litany of activities and developments over the past several decades but such dynamics are yet to be investigated sufficiently in tandem with their overall impacts on the world s safety and well being aiming to fill part of this acute research gap east asia s strategic advantage in the middle east concentrates primarily on different aspects of east asia s modern relationship with the middle east by turning the spotlight on strategic advantages of east asian countries in critical areas in the region over the past several years there have been a slew of talks and debates about the formation of strategic ties between the east asian states and their counterparts across the middle east region however east asia s advantage of strategic nature has been there for decades shaping the contours of an increasingly multifaceted chain of interactions involving the two sides the more other stakeholders western powers in particular made serious attempts to secure their precious assets in the middle east the larger east asia s strategic advantage in the region grew why did some communist and middle eastern dictatorships those in china vietnam north korea cuba syria iraq libya and iran remained defiantly stable during the onset of a democratic age in the 1980s and early 1990s the book offers an explanation based upon external relations the regimes defiance of external military or political foes and then searches for alternative or supplementary explanations by examining the changes that occurred in these dictatorships political structures ideologies and economic policies during 1980 94 most governments and global political organizations have been dominated by male leaders and structures that institutionalize male privilege as women and gender in international history reveals however women have participated in and influenced the traditional concerns of international history even as they have expanded those concerns in new directions karen garner provides a timely synthesis of key scholarship and establishes the influential roles that women and gender power relations have wielded in determining the course of international history from the early 20th century onward women have participated in state to state relations and decisions about when to pursue diplomacy or when to go to war to settle international conflicts particular women as well as masculine and feminine gender role constructs have also influenced the establishment and evolution of intergovernmental organizations and their political social and economic policy making regimes and agencies additionally feminists have critiqued male dominated diplomatic establishment and intergovernmental organizations and have proposed alternative theories and practices this text integrates women and gender and feminist analyses into the study of international history in order to produce a broader understanding of processes of international change during the 20th and 21st centuries landed estates shōen produced much of the material wealth supporting all levels of late classical and medieval japanese society during the tenth through sixteenth centuries estates served as sites of de facto government trade network nodes developing agricultural technology and centers of religious practice and ritual although mostly farmland many yielded nonagricultural products including lumber salt fish and silk and provided livelihoods for craftsmen seafarers peddlers and performers as well as for cultivators by the twelfth century an estate system permeated much of the japanese archipelago this volume examines the system from three perspectives the land itself the power derived from and exerted over the land and the religion institutions and individuals that were involved in landholding practices chapters by japanese and western scholars explore how the estate system arose developed and eventually collapsed several investigate a single estate or focus on agricultural techniques while others survey estates in broad contexts such as economic change and maritime trade other chapters look at how we learn about estates by inspecting documents landscape features archaeological remains and extant buildings and images how representatives of every social stratum worked together to make the land productive and conversely how cooperative arrangements failed and rivals battled one another making conflict as well as collaboration a hallmark of the system on a more personal level we follow the monk chōgen s restoration of Ōbe estate and his installation of a famous amida triad in a temple he built on the premises the strategies of royal ladies jōsaimon in hachijōin and kōkamon in as they strove to keep their landholdings viable and the murder of estate official gorōzaemon whose own neighbors killed him as a result of a much larger dispute between two powerful warrior families land power and the sacred represents a significant expansion and revision of our knowledge of medieval japanese estates a range of readers will welcome the primary source research and comparative perspectives it offers those who do not specialize in japanese medieval history but recognize the value of teaching the history of estates will find a chapter devoted to the topic invaluable contributors and translators kristina buhrma michelle damian david eason sakurai eiji translated by ethan segal philip garrett janet r goodwin yoshiko kainuma rieko kamei dyche sachiko kawai hirota kōji translated by janet r goodwin Ōyama kyōhei translated by janet r goodwin nagamura makoto translated by janet r goodwin endō motoo translated by janet r goodwin joan r piggott ethan segal dan sherer kimura shigemitsu translated by kristina buhrman noda taizō translated by david eason nishida takeshi translated by michelle damian the battle of dien bien phu is one of the most studied engagements of the twentieth century its outcome signaled a significant step in the decline of european hegemony over colonial holdings and marked a watershed event in the establishment of a communist foothold in southeast asia military histories on the battle tend to be in agreement as to the reasons for french failure and vietminh victory with logistics usually appearing toward the top of the list on the one hand the vietminh are lauded for their successful mobilization of massive proportions while on the other the french are chided for the failure of their technologically superior aerial resupply effort but this orthodoxy is in need of refinement to be sure the leading cause of french defeat was logistical bankruptcy but not in matters of strict quantity but rather in the quality of the aerial delivery to be sure the aerial resupply effort succeeded in succoring the french garrison during the critical fifty six days of the battle but as the vietminh ground advance shrunk the drop zones with antiaircraft fire driving the aerial delivery to higher altitudes more and more drops fell into the hands of the enemy an enemy who was starved of ammunition and on the verge of collapse without these misdropped supplies conventional wisdom to the contrary the battle of dien bien phu was not over before it started
